

Le Melanome: Aspects Biologiques, Cliniques Et Experimentaux (Paperback)

By S Verine Trabado, Séverine TRABADO

Univ Europeenne, United States, 2011. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: French . Brand New Book. Le melanome, cancer de la peau suspecte a l examen visuel, presente un taux de remission considerable au stade de tumeur primitive, mais peu de traitements sont actuellement efficaces au stade metastatique. C est pourquoi nous avons choisi developper une nouvelle approche therapeutique, sur le principe de l immunotherapie. Apres un rappel concernant les aspects biologiques et cliniques du melanome, nous avons examine la modulation de molecules impliquees dans la reconnaissance immune (CMH-I et B7.1/CD80) et dans les interactions cellulaires (tetraspanines CD9 et CD81, l integrine alpha4/CD49d) dans des cellules de melanome B16F0 inhibees pour l expression de l insulin-like growth factor I (IGF-I) par un vecteur episomal antisens. L inhibition de l IGF-I ne modifie pas l expression de CMH-I, ni de B7.1/CD80. Par contre, les cellules transfectees revelent une inhibition quasi-totale de l expression de la molecule CD9, sans modulation de CD81 et CD49d. Inoculees chez des hotes isogeniques, les cellules transfectees induisent un retard significatif du developpement tumoral, avec une amelioration de cinquante pour cents concernant la survie.
