Reviews

The book is great and fantastic. It is written in straightforward words and phrases rather than difficult to understand. You won't really feel monotony at any time of your respective time (that's what catalogues are for regarding should you question me).

Excerpt: .conveniently carry out at the same time and under the same conditions a considerable number of tests. It was found by experiment that esterification of fatty acids takes place rapidly with little evolution of heat and to the highest practical degree, in absolute alcohol half saturated with HCl gas, in presence of zinc chloride. If 3 grams of fatty acids from a good toilet soap base are dissolved in 25 c. c. absolute alcohol in a stoppered flask and 25 c. c. absolute alcohol saturated with HCl added, there is an evolution of heat due to mixing the saturated and unsaturated alcohol and the esters soon collect in oily drops and float on the surface of the liquid. If after standing a little time about 10 grams of dry granular zinc chloride be added, esterification soon proceeds to a practical completion. It is never actually complete but is as nearly so under these conditions as it is practical to attain while the components of the reaction remain in contact with each other. If the alcoholic solution is boiled with water until alcohol is removed, cooled, the esters dissolved in ether and the ethereal solution washed with water in a separating funnel until free from HCl, ether distilled off and esters dissolved in neutral alcohol and titrated with --, -KOH, there will be required from 0.7 c. c. to 2 c. c. This calculated as rosin, with an equivalent of .346, indicates 0.0242 gram, and 0.0692 gram,...
