Joseph Segar, of First Congressional District of Virginia, Before the Union Meeting in Portsmouth, Va., On Saturday, May 31, 1862 When I last trod the Streets of Portsmouth, our country was at peace, and the people of this whole land were the most blessed on the face of the globe. The storm of commercial revulsion which had swept over the land in 1857, had lulled, and under the influence Of bountiful crops and the recuperative energies of our people, the country had reached a point of prosperity it had never known before. How changed the scene! Wild war's deadly blast is blowing, and has carried desolation to every interest, and every fireside, within our State.
