Not illustrated. 1913 Excerpt: .has acted very arbitrarily in connection with this matter. It is no more than right for a citizen to be granted an interview when he has some business dealing with any of the Departments of the Government. If there are some good reasons for not granting an interview, or for denying a request sent-by letter, these reasons should be stated so one could feel that one had been treated fairly by whosoever the official may be. We feel that our requests were perfectly legitimate and we fail to understand the meaning of the letter of the Secretary of the Treasury, when it states that our objections place us wholly out of sympathy with the result which the Government desires to obtain. Inasmuch as this sentence makes the only apparent reason for the withdrawal of the invitation we feel that we should have some explanation as to its meaning. We had, at the time of the withdrawal of the invitation, spent considerable of our personal time and money in connection with the carrying out of the drawings and we are sure you will agree with as in admitting that we are the victims of a gross injustice. The main object of our request was to have the drawings selected by a jury of award. This has been the former policy of the Treasury Department, in connection with many public buildings. Our firm was invited to compete for the sub-Treasury Building in San Francisco and in the programme...
