Winner of the Bakeless Prize for Nonfiction, a childhood memoir of political oppression and persecution during Romania's Ceausescu years. Carmen Bugar grew up amid the bounty of the Romanian countryside on her grandparents' farm where food and laughter were plentiful. But eventually her father's behavior was too disturbing to ignore. He wept when listening to Radio Free Europe, hid pamphlets in sacks of dried beans, and mysteriously buried and reburied a typewriter. When she discovered he was a political dissident she became anxious for him to conform. However, with her mother in the hospital and her sister at boarding school, she was alone, and helpless to stop him from driving off on one last, desperate protest. After her father's subsequent imprisonment, Bugar was shunned by her peers at school and informed on by her neighbors. She candidly struggled with the tensions of loving her hero father who caused the family so much pain. When he returned from prison and the family was put under house arrest, the Bugar family was forced to chart...
